It's like, if you walk up to a random person and start talking to them, they're going to look at you like you're insane. So why would you do that with BoyBot? The crudest thing I've ever done with Firebase - jaymiliboy ===== gyardley I'm curious what he found so cruddy about it. Firebase's REST API was a huge improvement over App Engine's REST API

(which was a huge improvement over 'use Google APIs', which was a huge improvement over 'use the XMLHttpRequest API from your browser'), so I'm assuming he's complaining about using the Firebase API. The API is very straightforward and intuitive, and well-documented. There's also a small but growing set of add-ons for the API, so adding Firebase-only functionality is actually pretty easy. ## What's New in the?

BoyBot is a bot developed by Vivid Robot that uses different AI techniques to talk to you. It is a simple yet fun conversation bot. If you ever feel like having some fun talking to someone but don't have someone to talk to, BoyBot can be your companion. BoyBot's facial animation is totally in sync with what he says, meaning you get a live feeling of having a chat with someone. And if that's not enough, we're even adding new emoji (those funky-looking guys with the winky-face) every week to make sure you're never short of things to say. ChatBot is easy to set up and use. All you have to do is download the app, chat with the bot, and you're done. It doesn't matter what you're thinking or feeling, since ChatBot talks to you. ChatBot's personality is built from the bottom-up, where each part is thoughts It's a simple app that will not require much thought. The main use of the app is to take the place of a friend in a social situation. You can talk with a bot and if you don't have a friend to talk to, it's the next best option. However, it is hard to see how BoyBot's unique face and voice will be enough to make a person want to chat with the bot. While it is fun to chat with the bot, it's just a fun app, and nothing more. Features Basic, basic, basic. All it does is talk to you and its features are nothing special. You can customize the bot to fit your personality by providing a list of words that the bot will recognize. The only feature that is a bit more useful is that you can program the bot to react to certain words.

Pros
Simple and easy to use app
The quality of the voice is good, but it does get a bit annoying after a while

Cons
A basic app that you can program to act like a friend
I'm not really
